Rep. Rob Brooks lauds constituent Dave Maglio for his work with members of the National Guard.

Madison, WI—Representative Rob Brooks (R-Saukville) is fully supportive of Governor Walker’s executive order allowing members of the Wisconsin National Guard to carry weapons while on duty and is proud to announce that Saukville resident Dave Maglio, Range Master for Highlands Firearm Training Academy, will be offering concealed carry courses, free of charge, to any member of the National Guard and military (active duty or reserve).

“I applaud Dave, the Saukville Police Department and everyone else involved in offering concealed carry courses to the brave men and women who have made service to our nation, their life’s work,” said Representative Rob Brooks. “I strongly support Governor Walker’s Executive Order, as it protects members of the Wisconsin National Guard and other members of the military, from all threats, foreign and domestic,” Brooks said

Highlands Firearm Training Academy will be offering these concealed carry training courses in conjunction with the Village of Saukville Police Department. Members of the National Guard, and all military personnel, active duty or reserve, will be eligible to participate in these courses.

These concealed carry courses will be held at the Village of Saukville Police Department numerous times to accommodate as many service members as possible. The courses will meet the training requirements to obtain a Wisconsin concealed carry permit, as established by the Wisconsin Department of Justice. Course times and dates will be made available on Highlands Firearms Trainings website: <http://www.HighlandsFTA.com>.

“I commend Dave Maglio for his willingness to offer these concealed carry courses to members of the military and National Guard. I hope that you will join me in thanking him for his efforts and spread the word about these courses to anyone you know who is a member of the military, active duty or reserve, or the Wisconsin National Guard,” said Representative Brooks.
