Thank You to All of Our Brave Men and Women

On November 11, we as a nation stand together to recognize all the honorable men and women who have served in any of our United States Armed Forces. Veterans Day, also referred to as Armistice Day, is a day to recognize those who protect us each and every day.

Our brave men and women deserve recognition for their sacrifices and for defending our lives and preserving the liberties that are written in our Constitution and Bill of Rights. We would not have these rights without the members of our brave military members.

We must not forget all the dedication and service that our military members have to our state and nation. We have over 350,000 veterans here in Wisconsin, which is absolutely incredible. Many of our veterans are overlooked and that is not right. Those who have served our nation deserve the upmost respect for what they have done protecting our great nation in the past, present, and for our future generations.

Mental health issues are all too often among our service members and it is very difficult to see. Many of us know somebody who is currently serving in our military, has served in our military or you may have served yourself that may be struggling with mental health issues. There has been a bipartisan task force on Suicide Prevention created in the Assembly to address these very issues and I look forward to legislation passing both the Assembly and Senate in regard to suicide prevention.

I want to thank each and every veteran for serving in our military.

As always, feel free to contact my office with questions, comments, or concerns.
