

FOX VALLEY TECHNICAL COLLEGE
CRIMINAL JUSTICE DIVISION

Fox Valley Technical College (FVTC) is the one of the leading national trainers and educators in law enforcement today. This progressive institution of higher education is unmatched in its ability to provide expert training and technical assistance to hundreds of thousands of police officers, prosecutors, judges, corrections officials, child protection workers, broadcasters, and journalists in the United States and its territories, and in other countries as well.

FVTC serves public and private agencies and organizations as well as private industry with comprehensive services designed to meet the most challenging needs of the criminal justice community. Its cadre of more than 300 criminal justice experts offers effective solutions to the most complex problems:

- Effective administrative systems and structures that improve performance, governance, and accountability.
- Advanced management information systems that increase productivity and output.
- Innovative methods for assessing strengths and capacities.
- Powerful monitoring systems for evaluating programs and making specific recommendations
- Proven strategies for enhancing the effectiveness of complex law enforcement investigations, such as child abuse and exploitation, through interagency cooperation, information sharing, and strengthened policies and procedures.

Through its Criminal Justice Division, which is comprised of three Criminal Justice Centers, FVTC delivers best-practice techniques to improve the knowledge, skills, capacity, capability, and leadership potential of criminal justice professionals and systems.

Criminal Justice Center for Professional Education (CJCPE)

One of the largest law enforcement training centers in the Midwest, CJCPE offers entry-level education and training for students pursuing a career in criminal justice and continuing-education credits for those already in the field. CJCPE offers Associate Degree programs, technical diplomas, and certificates. Specialty areas of study include cyber crime, loss prevention, and security. Online courses make training accessible to students regardless of location—students can earn an Associate’s Degree in Criminal Justice entirely online. CJCPE’s Executive Development Institute draws law enforcement leaders from all over for 8 weeks of intensive management training over a period of 12 months.

Criminal Justice Center for Innovation (CJCI)

CJCI is changing how communities address the specific needs of their criminal justice professionals by providing specialized tools and other resources, innovative training programs, and onsite technical assistance. Expert practitioner consultants design and deliver high-quality training and technical assistance to diverse audiences to help them address many of today’s most challenging issues, including sustainability, safety and security, diversion and prevention, cultural competency, community analysis, and strategic planning. CJCI works with state, local, tribal, and community agencies to enhance their ability to effectively respond to these and many other critical issues.

Criminal Justice Center for Child Protection (CJCCP)

For more than 15 years, CJCCP has been working with national, international, and community leaders to assess problems, identify solutions, and develop effective approaches for combating child victimization, exploitation, and abduction. CJCCP’s innovative training and technical assistance programs focus on specific issues—such as sex offender registries and forensic use of DNA—and on broad-based strategies designed to improve the system’s response to child predation. Special emphasis is given to missing and abducted children, Internet crimes against children, and AMBER Alert networking systems.

Together, FVTC’s Criminal Justice Division offers the best, most comprehensive law enforcement programming available today. To learn more about how you can benefit from Fox Valley, contact:
