

Overwhelmingly, Wisconsinites – from every part of the state – support commonsense gun violence prevention policies.

The following Wisconsin residents support an Extreme Risk Protection Order policy -- a mechanism that allows for the temporary removal of guns when individuals are in imminent danger of harming themselves or others.

- Often after a horrible act of violence, families say they saw clear warning signs but there was nothing they could do.
- An Extreme Risk Protective Order (ERPO) gives families and law enforcement officers a way to ask a judge to temporarily prohibit an at-risk person from possessing a gun. The ERPO is a non-criminal process that involves a court hearing and clearly defined due process protections.
- When our loved ones are in crisis, they should have access to quality care, not guns.
