Bundle Up and Enjoy the Outdoors

Wisconsin is known for snowmobiling, snow tubing, skiing, dog sledding, snowshoeing, and ice fishing among many others. It is time to put your winter gear on and spend time outdoors exploring the many winter activities our great state has to offer.

Even though winter has just begun as of December 21st and we have had a mild weather thus far compared to years past, colder days are ahead. In the upcoming weeks we will see our ground completely freeze, including lakes, rivers, and streams, and snowfalls shall be in the forecast more often.

Some may not enjoy the winter season, but frozen waters and snow on the ground provides outdoor enthusiasts the ability to participate in activities only winter has to offer. Once the water completely freezes over, ice fishing huts will appear and this makes for a great time for families to spend time together.

With roughly 25,000 miles of snowmobile trails, 15,000 lakes, dozens of ski hills, and over 50 inches of snowfall on average and upwards of 100 inches per year in much of the state, there are many different opportunities to get out and enjoy winter in Wisconsin.

Please visit Travel Wisconsin at <https://www.travelwisconsin.com/article/winter-activities/7-places-you-cant-miss-this-winter-in-wisconsin> to learn more about winter activities that may interest you and your family.

In addition, please visit <https://www.travelwisconsin.com/snowreport/printsnowmobile> to keep up-to-date on whether or not snowmobile trails are open, weather permitting.

Remember, stay warm and safe as frigid weather conditions are ahead.

As always, feel free to contact my office with questions, comments, or concerns at Rep.Pronschinske@legis.wi.gov.
