SUBJECT: Potential Effects of the Elimination of the Milwaukee Parental Choice Program on Public K-12 School Districts

At your request, I am providing information on parental choice programs and the potential revenue limit and general school aids effects on public K-12 school districts if the Milwaukee program were eliminated.

Background

Under the Milwaukee and Racine parental choice programs, the state pays a statutorily-determined maximum per pupil amount for children from eligible families to attend participating private schools. The maximum per pupil payment for 2012-13 is $6,442. For the Milwaukee program, DPI is required by law to reduce the general aid for which MPS is eligible by 45% of the estimated total cost of the Milwaukee program. The October 15, 2012, general aid calculation uses an estimate of $154.6 million for the total cost of the Milwaukee program in 2012-13. Thus, MPS's general aid will initially be reduced by a total of $69.6 million.

In 2012-13, DPI is required to pay the City of Milwaukee an amount equal to 6.6% of the estimated total cost of the choice program, for the purpose of defraying the choice program levy it raises on behalf of MPS. As a result, the net choice aid reduction for MPS in 2012-13 is equal to 38.4% of the estimated total cost of the Milwaukee program. In 2012-13, the City will be paid $10.2 million for the purpose of reducing the choice levy. The net reduction for MPS is thus $59.4 million, while the state's share is $95.2 million.

Under revenue limits, MPS can levy to make up for the aid reduction. Under 2007 Act 20, an aid program was created to provide aid to districts with high poverty. By law, any high poverty aid MPS receives must be used to offset the choice levy attributable to the general aid reduction. In 2012-13, MPS will receive $5.8 million in high poverty aid. After consideration of high poverty aid, the effective aid reduction for MPS related to the choice program is $53.6 million, which is 34.7% of the estimated cost of the program in 2012-13. The state thus funds 65.3% of the cost of the Milwaukee program, which is $101.0 million in 2012-13. This is the sum of the $95.2 million shown above plus the $5.8 million of high poverty aid.

For the Racine program, DPI is required by law to reduce the general aid for which the Racine Unified School District (RUSD) is eligible by 38.4% of the estimated total cost of the Racine program. The October 15, 2012, general aid calculation uses an estimate of $3.2 million for the cost of the Racine program in 2012-13. Thus, RUSD's general aid will be reduced by $1.2 million, while the state's share is $2.0 million.

Elimination of the Milwaukee Parental Choice Program

While choice programs are operating in both Milwaukee and Racine, this memorandum will consider only the potential effects of the elimination of the Milwaukee program. The Racine program began in the 2011-12 school year with a cap of 250 pupils, and has a cap of 500 pupils in 2012-13. For revenue limits, RUSD was a declining enrollment district in 2011-12 and 2012-13. Thus, the attendance in RUSD of some fraction of pupils if the Racine program were eliminated would offset some or all of the decline, mitigating any increase in the RUSD revenue limit and aidable costs under the assumptions used for this memorandum. The resulting aid effects would thus be relatively minor. As a result, RUSD's revenue limit and general aid factors will be held constant and the changes to RUSD general aid resulting from the elimination of the Milwaukee program will be considered with the other districts in the state.

If the Milwaukee program were eliminated, the state would no longer make payments to the parents of Milwaukee choice pupils and there would no longer be expenditures from the Milwaukee choice program appropriation. General fund expenditures related to the Milwaukee program would be reduced in an amount equal to 61.6% of the total cost of the program ($95.2 million in 2012-13). The 38.4% net choice program reduction made to MPS general school aids ($59.4 million in 2012-13) would also be eliminated. Because the state no longer has a commitment to fund two-thirds of partial school revenues, any increase in the MPS revenue limit that would result from choice pupils attending MPS would not result in an increase in general school aids by an amount equal to two-thirds of the revenue limit increase.

The fiscal effect of the elimination of the Milwaukee program would depend in part on two factors. The first factor is how the 61.6% state share of program costs ($95.2 million) would be appropriated in the absence of the program. (For the purposes of this memorandum, high poverty aid to MPS will not be considered.) One option would be to appropriate the funding for general school aids to account for the possible attendance of an unknown percentage of students at MPS. Another option would be to appropriate the funding to other programs or use it to improve the balance of the general fund. To illustrate the possible effects of the elimination of the Milwaukee program, this memorandum will consider both options.

The second factor would be the number of pupils that would attend MPS rather than pursue other educational opportunities, such as private schools or home schooling, and it is unclear how many would do so. To illustrate the possible revenue limit and general school aids effects of an alternative to eliminate the Milwaukee program, this memorandum presents six hypothetical examples of the fiscal effect of the elimination of the program using the alternative assumptions that 0, 25, 50, 75, 90, or 100 percent of choice pupils attend MPS.

Under revenue limits, one-third of the number of choice pupils that attend MPS would count immediately under the three-year rolling average of enrollment. MPS revenue limits would fully reflect the addition of choice pupils only in the third year. Because general school aids are calculated using prior year membership and shared cost data, the addition of choice pupils would not directly affect the amount of aid received by MPS until the next year. Once these pupils and their related shared costs would be fully included by MPS for general school aid purposes, there would be aid shifts. Table 1 shows the potential revenue limit, general school aid, and levy changes that would have occurred in 2012-13 for MPS and the other districts in the state, in total, if the indicated percentage of pupils attended MPS and no additional funding had been appropriated for general school aids. Table 1 is calculated as if the pupils and costs had been fully phased-in and affected 2012-13 general school aids.

Table 2 shows the potential revenue limit, general school aid, and levy changes that would have occurred in 2012-13 for MPS and the other districts in the state, in total, if the indicated percentage of pupils attended MPS and the $95.2 million state share of the choice program had been appropriated for general school aids. The same assumption used in Table 1 relating to fully phased-in cost is used in Table 2.

The attachments to this memorandum provide additional detail on the information presented in the tables. Attachment 1 shows the net general school aid payments received by school districts in 2012-13 under current law as well as the estimated payments these districts might have received under each of the alternative assumptions that 25, 50, 75, or 90 percent of choice pupils attended MPS and no additional general school aids funding had been appropriated. Attachment 2 shows the same information for the scenario under which an additional $95.2 million of general school aids funding had been appropriated. Under revenue limits, those school districts shown with an increase in aid would have decreased levies in an amount equal to the increase, while districts with an aid decrease would have the option of increasing their levies up to an amount equal to the decrease.

The aid changes shown in the tables and the attachments would reflect the effects of three factors. First, the elimination of the choice program reduction to MPS general school aids would have benefited MPS, with $59.4 million of the increase in general school aids for MPS in each scenario attributable to this factor. Second, for those scenarios under which some percentage of pupils would attend MPS, statewide membership would have been increased and the tertiary guarantee would have been slightly lower, which would have reduced the tertiary aid received by most districts with tertiary costs. Third, under the same scenarios, membership and shared costs for MPS would have been increased, which would have resulted in MPS receiving more aid under the equalization aid formula, and a lower secondary guarantee would have resulted to fully distribute the amount appropriated for general school aids. However, under the scenarios under which additional aid would have been appropriated, the reduction in the secondary guarantee would not have been as great, resulting in additional aid for most districts compared to the scenarios under which additional aid would not have been appropriated.

It should be noted that, while MPS would gain both revenue limit authority and general school aids as a result of choice pupils attending MPS when fully-phased in, in the first year after elimination of the Milwaukee program, MPS would be responsible for educating a given number of additional pupils, but only receive revenue limit authority for one-third of that amount, since revenue limits use a three-year rolling average. Also, since general school aids are calculated using prior year information, MPS would not receive aid for any additional pupils or shared costs in the first year after elimination of the choice program.

It must be emphasized that these examples are speculative. Assumptions have been made on the effects on MPS membership and shared costs and the examples are calculated as if all of these factors had been fully effective in 2012-13. Changes to the assumptions could significantly modify the results. These examples should be considered as an illustration of the potential range of effects of an alternative to eliminate the choice program.

I hope this information is helpful. Please contact me if you have further questions.
