Preserving Fairness and Safety in Women's Sports

Madison – Today, State Senator Dan Knodl (R-Germantown) testified on legislation he authored, the Saving Women's Sports Act. Assembly Bills 377 and 378 will preserve gender-specific sports categories at the high school and collegiate level, based on the athletes' biological sex, while allowing for the creation of co-ed sports teams.

“Allowing biological males to participate in female sports could deny deserving female athletes the recognition, scholarships, and university admissions that come with athletic achievement. This is why we have Title IX protections, which exist to ensure equal opportunities for female athletes and to address these historical disparities.

“We have women's sports for a reason.”
